EDUCATION:

Stetson University College of Law

LL.M. in Trial Advocacy with Distinction (December 2016)

Stetson University Law School has been ranked one of the best legal advocacy programs in the nation for over twenty years. During my course of study, I focused on classes that explained methods of teaching others how to litigate in the courtroom as well as supervise and manage programs geared towards mock trial and moot court students. By taking classes such as advanced advocacy, advanced evidence, pretrial practices, civil/discovery procedure, teaching advocacy, and complex negotiations, the program prepared me well to teach others to be effective in each step of the litigation process.

University of Florida College of Law

J.D. with Honors (May 1999)

During my time at the University, I was a member of the Justice Campbell Thornal Moot Court Team. In my first year with the organization, I was a final four competitor arguing before the Eleventh Circuit Court of Appeals for the United States of America as well as a semi-finalist at the University of San Diego School of Law Criminal Law Moot Court Competition. I also served as the Intramural Chair where I organized the competition for potential candidates to join the team; wrote the moot court problem; ran try outs; and managed the specifics of the competition. I was also a member of the Phi Delta Phi Honor Society.

Rollins College

B.A. Summa Cum Laude (May 1996)

Major: Psychology/ Minor: Organizational Communication

While at Rollins, I earned the Hamilton Holt Award for the graduating student with the second highest G.P.A in my graduating class. I also served as a member of the Student Hearing Board acting as the chief justice during my senior year. I was also acknowledged as the top Communication Minor student for receiving the highest G.P.A. in the minor. Additionally, I was a Sydney Sullivan Scholarship Award Winner, recognizing service to my community.

TEACHING EXPERIENCE:

Assistant Professor of Law at Nova Southeastern University Shepard Broad College of Law, Davie, Florida (2022 – present)

As a faculty member of the law school, I work with both undergraduate and law students on a variety of topics including legal advocacy, criminal law, criminal procedure, professional responsibility, and other courses. Additionally, at the undergraduate level, I am the faculty adviser for the Moot Court Program and serve on the undergraduate law committee. I have created five new courses for the program including Appellate Advocacy, Trial Advocacy, Mediation/Arbitration, Professional Responsibility, and International Comparative Law.

Director Undergraduate Moot Court Program at Nova Southeastern University Shepard Broad College of Law, Davie, Florida (2022 – present)

Seeing a need for cocurricular opportunities for the law school's undergraduate program, I launched an undergraduate moot court program. I serve as both the director and coach for the teams.

Internship Coordinator for Undergraduate Law Program at Nova Southeastern University Shepard Broad College of Law, Davie, Florida (2025 – present)

Working with legal employers in the local community, I help find and oversee undergraduate students interning at different locations. For example, I collaborated on the creation of an internship with the Broward County State Attorney's Office.

Lecturer/Associate Lecturer in the Legal Studies Department of the University of Central Florida, Orlando, Florida (2014 - 2022)

As a faculty member with the Legal Studies department, I have taught a variety of classes including introduction to law, domestic relations, criminal law, criminal procedure, legal research, legal writing, property law, ethics, advanced trial advocacy, and civil procedure. These classes were taught in a variety of modalities including traditional face to face, mixed mode, and fully online. My teaching responsibilities included overseeing as many as three hundred to four hundred students a semester. I also have received outstanding end of year performance reviews my entire time with the department. Additionally, I have created three, new classes for the department (Professionalism and Civility in the Law; Disability Law; and Poverty Law). I also led the committee that created an undergraduate certificate in mediation and dispute resolution for my department.

Experiential Learning Coordinator in the Legal Studies Department for the University of Central Florida, Orlando, Florida (2017 –2020)

My role was to ensure that students have high impact learning experiences in and out of the classroom. To accomplish this, I created numerous partnerships and collaborations with multiple entities in the Central Florida community. The position also required that I be involved with significant changes to our degree to improve student learning outcomes and enhance the viability of our graduates earning jobs, attending law school, and succeeding beyond their undergraduate careers.

- Internships: One of my chief responsibilities was managing our internship program. Under my leadership, there was a near threefold increase in the number of students being placed annually in an internship. There was also a significant increase in the quality of placements for our students with locations including Florida A&M University Law School's Misdemeanor Clinic; the Honorable Paul Byron, United States Middle District Magistrate; and the United States Office of Immigration and Enforcement. Based on these successes in 2018, the Legal Studies Department added the completion of an internship as a requirement of the degree.
- Capstone: For those students who for various reasons could not take an internship, I was involved with the revamping of our capstone course transforming it into a high impact class. Students now complete numerous activities in the community such as jail tours, courtroom observations, and other integrative experiences.

Director American Collegiate Moot Court Sunshine State National Tournament (Fall 2024)

I directed the American Collegiate Moot Court Sunshine State National Tournament. I was responsible for coordinating approximately three-hundred judges from the local legal community to rate student performance.

Director American Collegiate Moot Court Preround National Tournament (Spring 2024)

I directed the American Collegiate Moot Court Preround National Tournament for the Southeast. I was responsible for coordinating approximately three-hundred judges from the local legal community to rate student performance as well as assembling the final round panel consisting of a Florida Fourth District Court of Appeal Judge, a Broward County Judge, and the Dean of Nova Southeastern University Shepard Broad College of Law.

Assistant Director American Collegiate Moot Court National Tournament (2018)

I assisted the director in the planning, running, and overseeing the American Collegiate Moot Court National Tournament. I was responsible for coordinating approximately three-hundred judges from the local legal community to rate student performance as well as assembling the final round panel consisting of a Florida Fifth District Court of Appeal Judge, a Federal Magistrate, and the State Attorney for the Ninth Judicial Circuit.

Director American Mock Trial Association Southeastern Regional Tournament (2015, 2016, 2017)

I was responsible for planning, running, and overseeing a national tournament hosting approximately two-hundred-and-fifty students. The tournament included arranging for approximately one-hundred legal professionals to serve as judges at the event.

Assistant Director American Mock Trial Association National Tournament (2014)

I worked with the director in the planning, running, and overseeing of the final round of the national tournament. I was responsible for coordinating approximately two-hundred judges from the local legal community to rate student performance.

Assistant Director American Collegiate Moot Court South Atlantic Regional Tournament (2016, 2017, 2019)

I worked with the director in the planning, running, and overseeing the tournament. My duties included finding approximately one-hundred judges for the tournament.

Adjunct Professor in Paralegal Certificate Program of Rollins College, Winter Park, Florida (2016 - 2018)

I served as an Adjunct Professor for the Paralegal Certificate Program for Rollins College. In this capacity, I taught nontraditional students legal research and writing. Covering such topics as online research tools, Bluebook citations, and creation of written documents, the goal was to prepare students to enter the workforce as paralegals and, for those who were interested, to obtain their paralegal certification through the state. The class had to be created from scratch such that I produced every assignment and supplemented the text with outside sources.

Adjunct Professor in Legal Studies Department of the University of Central Florida, Orlando, Florida (2013)

I taught trial advocacy at the University of Central Florida. The class sought to educate students on the different elements of a trial. Topics included jury selection, opening statements, direct examinations, cross examinations, and closing arguments. Students were tested by presenting mock segments of trials to perfect their oral abilities, organizational skills, and critical thinking.

Adjunct Professor in Legal Studies Department of Strayer University, Maitland, Florida (2013)

I taught a class entitled "White Collar Crime" for Strayer University in Maitland, Florida. This class provided a comprehensive study of economic crime and covered topics such as corporate crime, employee theft, local and federal government fraud, and tax evasion.

Coach for UCF Moot Court Team University of Central Florida, Orlando, Florida (2011, 2012, 2013)

I served as a coach for the program working with students in teams of two to prepare for and compete in competitions across the country. I would routinely work on both written and oral skills with students. All three years I coached, teams earned bids to the National American Collegiate Moot Court Association Tournament.

Adjunct Professor in Psychology Department of Rollins College, Winter Park, Florida (2007 - 2015)

I created a class called "Psychology and the Law" which I taught for nearly ten years in the Psychology department at Rollins College. The class focused on the interaction of psychiatry and psychology in the legal field. Topics covered in the class included civil competency for testamentary documents, psychological accommodations for work and education, guardian ad litem work in divorce and dependency cases, alternative dispute resolution, parenting evaluations in divorce and paternity cases, victim awareness in criminal cases, competency and sanity evaluations for defendants, psychological mitigation in sentencing, special issues regarding children witnesses, difficulties facing police psychologist, the role of prison psychologists, and the use of lie detector tests and hypnotism in evidence.

Teaching Assistant for Appellate Advocacy for the University of Florida College of Law, Gainesville, Florida (1999)

As a teaching assistant, I worked with Professor Henry Wihnyk in teaching first year law students appellate advocacy which included leading small groups, grading briefs, and judging mock oral arguments.

Teaching Assistant for Legal Research and Writing for the University of Florida College of Law, Gainesville, Florida (1998)

As a teaching assistant, I worked with Professor Henry Wihnyk in teaching first year law students legal research and writing which included leading small groups, demonstrating research techniques, and grading research papers.

Teaching Assistant/Writing Consultant for Rollins College Writing Center, Winter Park, Florida (1993 - 1996)

As a teaching assistant, I served as a peer consultant for students writing papers on a variety of topics, proofread for errors, and provided guidance on structure, coherence, and clarity of thought.

IMPACTFUL TEACHING EXAMPLES:

Mock Trial (2021): For the final exam in my trial advocacy class, my students competed against the mock trial team from Seminole High School's Law Magnet program in front of the Honorable Andrew Cameron, Orange County, Florida Judge.

Disability Law Escape Room (2020): With the assistance of the Office of Student Accessibility Services, my students in my disability law class engaged in an escape room challenge to simulate some of the difficulties that individuals who struggle with disabilities experience every day.

Virtual Courthouse Experience (2020): I originally had planned to have my Law and the Legal System (Intro to Law) class tour the local courthouse and interact with legal professionals. However, because of Covid-19 restrictions, this event had to be altered. Through Zoom I was able to still offer my students the same experience, virtually, with nine different legal speakers.

State Attorney Diversion Project (2020): My Professionalism students were provided the opportunity to create the actual diversion program that the State Attorney's office uses for individuals charged with underage drinking. Diversion refers to a program where individuals charged with an offense complete education in lieu of incarceration/probation to avoid a criminal record. In teams, students created a proposed educational program, presented their ideas to Aramis Ayala, and the winning team developed the final program used today for such cases.

Poverty Law Class (2020): I created a new course for the Legal Studies department entitled Poverty Law. The course seeks to encourage diversity through teaching students how to utilize their legal education to advocate for the poor and indigent.

SL Designation (2020): The Poverty Law class has earned a service-learning designation through faculty excellence and the QEP. The designation was awarded as students in the course must volunteer twenty-five hours a semester with such agencies as Legal Aid of Orlando and the Public Defender's Office providing legal services to the poor. I am the only faculty member of Legal Studies department to receive such designation for a class.

Immigration Experience (2020): In association with Dr. Irene Pons, we created an experience for students to travel to a border town in Texas to learn about immigration law. Students worked with ProBar to help children who were detained by ICE.

The Defamation Experience (2020): In an effort to address difficult issues about race and diversity in a creative way, I worked with the Defamation Experience to present a play of a criminal case to my students. After the play concluded, a lively discussion about racial relations occurred on the subject matter. <https://youtu.be/ODmrhFggVh0>

Disability Law (2020): I created a new course for the Legal Studies department entitled Disability Law. The course seeks to encourage diversity through teaching students how to advocate for disabled individuals in our legal system.

Camp Law and Order (2020): I provided a group of UCF students interested in mock trial and litigation the opportunity to interact with high school students who came from underprivileged communities to put on a mock trial at FAMU Law School. https://www.wftv.com/news/ucf-hosts-camp-law-and-order-for-orange-county-high-school-students_20190729173414/970971762

Teach-In (2020): Students interested in litigation were provided an opportunity to work with local high school social studies teachers to learn how to incorporate mock trial into their curriculum for their students. UCF students worked hand in hand with the teachers demonstrating litigation assignments that had practical application in the classroom.

Conflict Resolution and Analysis Graduate Certificate (2019): Headed committee of legal studies faculty who created a graduate certificate program for Legal Studies in conflict resolution. The program works with already existing courses in Public Administration and Communications in an effort to create connection with departments on the downtown campus. In relation with our efforts, we created four, new, six thousand level courses (PLA 6247 - Conflict Resolution Theory; PLA 6515 - Understanding Human Behavior and Conflict; PLA 6245 - Advanced Applied Negotiation and Conflict Resolution; and PLA 6246 - Advanced Mediation and Conflict Resolution Practicum). https://catalog.ucf.edu/preview_program.php?catoid=17&poid=8966

College Behind Bars (2019): In association with the Florida Prison Education Project, students were able to hear from previously incarcerated individuals who experienced first-hand how education changed their lives for the better.

Courthouse Experience (2019): Students were provided an opportunity to immerse themselves in the criminal justice system through various tours and speakers in a one-day event at the Orange County Courthouse. Individuals from the Orange County Clerk's Office; the State Attorney's Office; the Public Defender's Office; and the Ninth Judicial Circuit all spoke at the event.

Professionalism and Civility in the Law (2018): I created a new course called Professionalism and Civility in the Law to provide fundamental skills to our students to be competitive in the work force. The class instructs students on soft skills such as interacting with the public, resume writing, and interviewing.

IE Designation (2018): Professionalism and Civility in the Law has earned an integrative experience designation through faculty excellence and the QEP. The designation was awarded as students in the course work with legal mentors intimately to complete their assignments. Mentors are paralegals, lawyers, judges, and other legal professionals who provide real world feedback on resumes, interviewing skills, and e-portfolios. The course culminates in a fake mixer where students practice their new learned skills in a challenging yet safe environment. I am the only faculty member of Legal Studies department to receive such designation for a class.

Experiential Capstone Journal (2017-present): Capstone students are asked to engage in a variety of experiential learning opportunities to explore their interests in the law as well as to make real world connections with legal topics. Such opportunities include touring the jail, attending a board of county commissioners meeting, or appearing at a real estate closing.

Online Video Vignettes (2014-present): In order to build a strong connection with online students, intro videos are used for weekly modules. This also develops an interest in the topic. For one example see: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=YIA-6FFEYUA>

TEACHING HONORS/AWARDS:

Phi Alpha Delta Teacher Award (2022): recipient of PAD teaching award for recognition of outstanding teaching efforts in UCF's Legal Studies Department.

TIP Award (2022): recipient of the Teaching Incentive Program Award for the College of Community Innovation and Education for 2021-2022 academic year.

High Quality Online Course Designation for Disability Law (2021): earned high quality online course designation from University Of Central Florida for Disability Law online course.

High Quality Online Course Designation for Legal Research (2021): earned high quality online course designation from University Of Central Florida for Legal Research online course. Only member of Legal Studies department to receive such designation for this class.

Excellence In Undergraduate Teaching Award (2021): recipient of the Undergraduate Teaching Award for the College of Community Innovation and Education for 2020-2021 academic year.

Knighted Faculty (Class of 2021): selected to be member of the inaugural class of Knighted Faculty who attend seminars on teaching methods, learn instructing methodologies, and interact with other faculty across the University to gain knowledge on new teaching techniques. Selection based on creativity and quality in teaching.

High Quality Online Course Designation for Legal Writing (2020): earned high quality online course designation from University Of Central Florida for Legal Writing online course. Only member of Legal Studies department to receive such designation for this class.

NACE Faculty Champion (2020): designated by career service as a National Association of Colleges and Employers (NACE) faculty champion for UCF. Selection based on creation of courses and assignments that assist students in obtaining a career after graduation.

SAS Teaching Fellow (2019): chosen as one of two individuals university wide to work with UCF's Office of Student Accessibility Services to serve as a conduit for ideas between the office and the University faculty. In this position, I created electronic tools to communicate offered programs as well as served on a committee to design testing accommodation for special needs students.

Marc Consalo, If You Stand Your Ground You Open the Door to Criminal History, UCF Center for Law and Policy Practitioner's Pointers (Feb. 2019), available at <https://ccie.ucf.edu/cflp/pointers/>. When criminal defense attorneys assert a stand your ground your defense, they enable prosecutors to bring up information regarding a defendant's criminal history that would normally be objectionable. This article seeks to alert litigators to this issue as many attorneys are unaware of this nuance in the law.

Marc Consalo, The Morning After: Selecting Impartial Juries After Mass Shootings, 4 Stetson J. Advoc. & L. 102 (2017), available at <https://www2.stetson.edu/advocacy-journal/the-morning-after-selecting-impartial-juries-after-mass-shootings/>. With mass shootings becoming common place, much concern is focused on ensuring that the individuals committing these crimes get an impartial jury. However, little is known how these crimes potentially taint entire jury pools for other defendants charged with violent offenses. This article asserts that during jury selection litigators should be questioning potential jurors on the affect mass shootings have on their ability to hear a case.

Editor of Ch. 13: Family Law in Ransford Pyle & Carol Bast, Foundations of Law: Cases, Commentary, and Ethics (6th ed. 2017).
